FCWC'S FEDERATION MEETING

On Wednesday, May 7th, FCWC held its annual Federation Meeting, where 17 member organizations joined together to network and discuss ideas on collaboration. We heard about projects and initiatives that each of the member organizations is working on, shared some of what FCWC has been doing to benefit the member organizations.

One new resource that FCWC has set up, which is available to the environmental community in Westchester, is a LinkedIn group called 'Westchester County Environment'. This was formed to encourage dialogue among the environmental community in Westchester. This LinkedIn group provides a venue where members of the environmental community can post questions and respond to discussions, promote their events or calls for action, and post job and internship opportunities. To join the group, search for 'Westchester County Environment' and click join. We look forward to having active participation in this group.

The Executive Director of Friends of Westchester County Parks, Joe Stout, also proposed a new initiative which would involve FCWC and its member organizations to form a coalition to preserve and expand open space in Westchester County, including expanding the trail system throughout the County. A meeting to bring together interested parties will take place in June, and if you are interested, please contact FCWC's office.

Federation Members then had a chance to tell County Legislator Catherine Parker, chair of the Energy and Environment Committee, and FCWC what their hot topic issues were this year. While each organization had their own interests, many recurring themes existed amongst the groups as well. Below is a summary of what the member organizations are most concerned with in 2014: food waste and leaf composting along with plastic bag bans or fees. In addition, educating youth on nature and watersheds and getting them outside were other issues that came up often during discussions. Other topics that were mentioned include: combatting and preventing invasive vines/species, safe routes to schools, creating and restoring trailways, green building codes, benchmarks for energy usage, restoring habitat and canopy trees, sea level rise along coasts, promoting wetlands, leaf blowers in municipalities and county parks, opportunities for financial savings and environmental benefits to municipalities, LED street lights, streamlined solar permitting, air quality improvement, stormwater runoff and the 287 corridor, and climate change.

The Federation Meeting is one of the most important days of the whole year for FCWC because it gives us a chance to gauge the pulse of the environmental community. We get to hear many ideas and concerns, and then FCWC can focus its agenda to address some of these topics. We thank those 17 member groups that attended the meeting. With that being said, we always want to hear from all of you, our members and friends, on what environmental issues are important to you. Please feel free to reach out to our office at any time to let us know your concerns. Our number again is 914-422-4053. We look forward to hearing from you.

CERTIFIED CLIMATE SMART COMMUNITIES

On Earth Day, the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (NYSDEC) announced the first 6 local governments in New York State to be designated as Certified Climate Smart Communities under the new Climate Smart Community Certification Program. Two of the first six municipalities recognized were from right here in Westchester; the Town of Cortlandt and the Village of Dobbs Ferry. Others from around the region include: the City of Albany, City of Kingston, Orange County, and City of Watervliet.

The Certified Climate Smart Communities have taken significant steps to combat climate change and are leading the State forward in reducing greenhouse gas emissions, saving tax payer dollars and preparing for the impacts of climate change. FCWC wishes to congratulate both Cortlandt and Dobbs Ferry for this important recognition and are proud of the examples they are providing for other municipalities throughout Westchester.
